

LET'S BEGIN HERE

You are embarking on the most fascinating journey of life—the journey of discovering your child. Your child may be yours by birth, adoption, or marriage; he or she may be your grandchild or nephew or niece who lives with you. This amazing, one-of-a-kind boy or girl whom God has placed in your life to nurture and guide is your child.

Oh, the wonders of your child! Her heart is so tender and pure. His mind hums like a power plant with imagination and curiosity. Her personality sparkles with laughter and joy like a multifaceted diamond. Your task is to explore the hidden universe that lies within your child. Unlock the secrets. And then release your child to be the mature, confident adult that God intended him or her to be.

Along the way of discovering your child, a surprising second discovery will unfold. You'll discover yourself! Chuck Swindoll realized this parenting benefit, “It wasn't until we began to have children that I fully began to understand how I am put together.” As you reveal to your child the wonders of who he or she is, God will do the same for you. As you parent, God will parent you, encouraging you to blossom right alongside your child. You can—and will, with God's help—grow with your child!

Are you ready to follow God's leading in the journey and joy of parenting? Let's dig into His Word to find the way.

DIGGING DEEPER

The word way is a key concept in Proverbs 22:6. In a few moments, we will ask the question, “What does way mean within the context of this verse?” Before we attempt to understand the meaning of the word (which is the task of interpretation in our Searching the Scripture method of Bible study), let's make some observations of the passage.

Train up the child in the way he should go,
Even when he is old he will not depart from it. (Proverbs 22:6)

Quotable

*Wise is the parent
who understands,
“I need to spend
time with my child.
I need to observe. I need to dialogue so
that my child grows
up knowing his or her unique,
God-given design.”*

— Charles R. Swindoll

By observing closely, you can identify five components of thought. In the chart below, fill in the words from the verse that fit the description.

Component	Words from the Verse
The command—the what
The recipient of the action—the who
The specifics of the action—the how
The end of the action—the when
The outcome of the action—the then what

The observation phase of Bible study should spark some questions that you'd like to answer in the interpretation phase. Here are some questions to fuel your thinking:

- What is the nature of the training?
- What is the duration of the training?
- What is the implementation of the training?
- What are the results of the training?

Can you think of other questions you'd like to explore? Jot them down in the space below.

Searching the Scriptures Tip

Asking a good question is like using a sharp knife when you're preparing food in the kitchen. Just as a paring knife in a skilled hand can slice away the peel to reveal the delicious fruit, so also a finely honed question can expose the core scriptural truth. As a parent, you need answers! What does training my child look like? How is training different from instructing or lecturing? For how many years should I train my child? These questions cut to the issue. Let's look closer to find God's answers.

Up Close

- “Train up . . .” The word in Hebrew is hanakh. To explore the meaning of the Hebrew word, Chuck used a Hebrew-English lexicon. The authors of the lexicon associate the word to an Arabic root, which, in one particular source, means to “rub [the] palate of a child with chewed dates.” In another source, it refers to a midwife rubbing the “palate of a new-born child with oil . . . before it begins to suck.”¹ Also, the Hebrew word hanakh is used three other times in the Old Testament, all with reference to dedicating a building (see Deuteronomy 20:5; 1 Kings 8:63; 2 Chronicles 7:5).²

A midwife stimulating a newborn's natural desire to suck by rubbing the palate with something sweet is a vivid image. What can you conclude about the meaning of train up from this metaphor?

Training your child involves stimulating a latent talent or gift within your child. What may lie hidden within your child's God-given nature? Perhaps some interests or talents? Needs or longings? A thirst for a close relationship? Or a spiritual desire? What hidden gems have you seen in your child?

- “. . . A Child . . .” The Hebrew term na'ar is used in the Old Testament to describe children of various ages. Let's examine three of these uses. What stage of childhood is the “child” in Genesis 34:19; 37:2; and 1 Samuel 4:21?

What conclusion about the duration of parenting can you draw from these references? In other words, through which stages of your child's life are you responsible to train your child?

- “. . . The Way He Should Go . . .” The Hebrew phrase can be translated literally, “upon the mouth of his way,” which is an idiom meaning, “in accord with his way.”

Most English versions emphasize the word should, implying a prescribed and proper direction in which to lead the child. But the Hebrew idiom emphasizes his way and in accord with, pointing to characteristics that emerge from within the child, namely, his or her personality, abilities, or natural interests. So which interpretation is correct? Should we train a child in the way he or she should go? Or according to his or her way?

To help solve the puzzle, let's return to the question we posed earlier: What does way mean in the context of this verse? For a clue to the answer, read Proverbs 22:6 in The Amplified Bible:

Train up a child in the way he should go [and in keeping with his individual gift or bent], and when he is old he will not depart from it. (emphasis added)

In the italicized amplification, the way of the child refers to his or her characteristics, manner, or “bent.” Use the Searching the Scriptures correlation method to compare way in Proverbs 22:6 to the same word in Proverbs 30:18–19. In the space below, write down the verses, and substitute the word characteristic for way in order to highlight the metaphorical meaning.

The ways that eagles soar, snakes slither, ships sail, and even the way that a boy romances his sweetheart are all one-of-a-kind wonders. And so is your child!

God has shaded each child in your family according to his or her own color palette. No two are alike; even identical twins are unique. God definitely did not sketch homebody Jacob in the likeness of his twin, outdoorsman Esau. Your children’s personalities, interests, relational styles, strengths, weaknesses are different (not better or worse, just different). Measuring one child against another would be like nitpicking a Da Vinci painting because it’s not a Rembrandt. Both are masterpieces—and so are your children. So don’t compare siblings.

Pause to put together the interpretation of Proverbs 22:6, as you have discovered it so far. Review the meaning of each part of the verse, and then write a sentence or two in the box below that summarizes God’s plan for parenting.

“Train up (the what) . . . a child (the who) . . . in the way he should go (the how)”

Now let’s look at the final section, “Even when he is old, he will not depart from it” (Proverbs 22:6b). The root meaning of the Hebrew word for old is “hair on the chin,” which suggests an age of maturity when children become young adults and are able to make it on their own.

The Hebrew word for depart means “to turn aside.” When you help your children know their bents, they will follow their “way” and not turn aside from it. Why would they? They are living in harmony with how God made them.

Bring It Home

How can you discover your child today? Start by tuning in to his or her deeds: “It is by his deeds that a lad distinguishes himself” (Proverbs 20:11). Children speak through the megaphone of their deeds. If you listen, you can hear them saying, “This is me. Please notice. I’m not him. I’m not her. Let me be me.” Reflect on what you’ve heard in your child’s deeds. Be sensitive. Watch closely. Listen intently. In what ways can you encourage your child’s “bents”—his or her personality, interests, pursuits, possible vocation, relational style, gifts, and strengths.

A FINAL PRAYER

Father, help me to see Your fingerprints on my child’s soul. Your handiwork began at conception, and you continue to shape and mold. Unite me with your creative work in my child’s life—and help me to grow as well, to be the person you made me to be. In Jesus’ name, amen.

Endnotes

1. Frances Brown, S. R. Driver, and Charles A. Briggs, The New Brown-Driver-Briggs-Gesenius Hebrew and English Lexicon (Peabody, Mass.: Hendrickson, 1979), 335.
2. Chuck used another source to define the word hanakh as dedicate, inaugurate, initiate. See R. Laird Harris, Gleason L. Archer, Jr., and Bruce K. Waltke, eds., Theological Wordbook of the Old Testament, vol. 1 (Chicago: Moody Press, 1980), 301.

BIBLICAL PARENTING

Discovering Your Child—and Yourself

Proverbs 22:6

SEARCHING THE SCRIPTURES

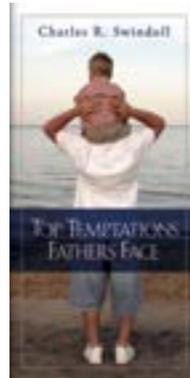

STUDY

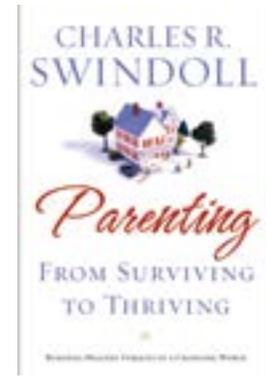

Tools for Digging Deeper

Biblical Parenting
by Charles R. Swindoll
CD series

Top Temptations Fathers Face
by Charles R. Swindoll
booklet

Parenting: From Surviving to Thriving
by Charles R. Swindoll
softcover book

For these and related resources, visit www.insightworld.org/store or call USA 1-800-772-8888 • AUSTRALIA +61 3 9762 6613 • CANADA 1-800-663-7639 • UK +44 1306 640156

For the 2017 broadcast, this Searching the Scriptures study was developed by the Pastoral Ministries Department in collaboration with Mark Tobey, based upon the original outlines, charts, and sermon transcripts of Charles R. Swindoll's messages.

www.insight.org | www.insightworld.org

Copyright © 2012, 2017 by Charles R. Swindoll, Inc. All rights are reserved worldwide. Duplication of copyrighted material for commercial use is strictly prohibited.

Committed to Excellence in Communicating Biblical Truth and Its Application

S01
7